Millions of women will enter the natural cycle of the female body known as menopause every day. This phase involves vast changes in their hormonal structure. When the ovaries cease the production of the eggs, the hormonal pathways become greatly imbalanced. This imbalance creates the breeding ground for a wide variety of ailments and associated symptoms. Like depression, anxiety, genital abnormality; itching and dryness, irritability, abnormal weight gain, low libido, hot flashes, night sweats and many more.

Of these many known symptoms, even the best prescribed medications offer little relief from them all. In fact, even the very best drugs are dwarfed by the numerous known, adverse side effects that they can cause. And many women are not able to even take the prescription drugs. For example, women with a history of cancer, including ovarian, uterine and breast cancers, cannot take the drugs. Additionally, women who suffer from gall bladder disease, heart disease or unexplainable vaginal bleeding are also unable to take prescribed drugs for menopause. And most of the prescription drugs increase the risk by nearly double of contracting such cancers and diseases.
